

LET'S GET THE SHOW ON THE ROAD or some such admonition was probably running through the mind of Verne Bierbaum of New Hampton, Iowa, who was waiting in the bus after lunch to return to the compact comfort of his trailer at the Loma Hermosa athletic field. Then of course he may just have been wondering, "Where's that Leota?" She's his wife and from 310 West Main in New Hampton too.

LOADED and ready to roll is one of the gleaming buses in which the Wally Byam caravanners look the regular city tour yesterday seeing the sights from the impressive University City to the romantic ramparts of the Castle of Chapultepec. Reading from left to right they are best known by themselves as individuals and to the communities through which their caravan rolls as a very large group of most contented and very jolly people.

Old Home Towners In Force Invade Capital Trailer Wise

It was a whirl through town yesterday aboard bigger manifestations than the trailer caravaners had maneuvered down the road from Ciudad Juarez and a wealth of sights and sounds of the city from the Zocalo along the well worn path that countless tourists have trod before in their regulation "City Tour," and then lunch at La Cava. Some just stayed home and did the washing or went out to lunch with folks from home who have settled down here in Mexico and welcomed friends from their old home town.

The crews of one hundred sixty (we spell it out for our Sunday story lost a "6") somewhere and said that 10 had never seen Mexico before) of the trailers are on their first visit and will be here through the week.

Mrs. Wilson Cited by Senator

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (UP) Democratic Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (Ore.) today praised the "courageous loyalty" of Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, wife of the Republican Defense Secretary.

He said Mrs. Wilson's defense of her husband in the National Guard controversy was pleasantly candid in Washington where "there is so much insecurity, hypocrisy and double-talk."
